The California Department of Public Health (CDPH), Tuberculosis Control Branch (TBCB), is recruiting for a Public Health Medical Officer III (epidemiology).

Mission Statement: To protect and improve the health of all, the California Tuberculosis Control Branch provides leadership and resources to control and eliminate tuberculosis.

Overview: This position offers an exciting opportunity in the state that reports the most TB cases in the US. We are looking for a qualified physician to work with a multi-disciplinary team to investigate and contain tuberculosis (TB) outbreaks and perform multidrug-resistant TB consults. In addition, the position provides medical and epidemiologic expertise to inform analytic projects, and state and national policies and guidelines. Please see the attached duty statement for more details.

Location: This position is based in Richmond, CA, near the Richmond Marina, approximately 5 miles from Berkeley and 16 miles from San Francisco, respectively. Duties will at times require intermittent statewide travel.

Compensation: The civil service salary range for a Public Health Medical Officer III (epi) (Range C/ dependent on board certification) is $9,620 – $13,199 per month. Position includes generous benefits.

How to apply:
To be considered for the position, a candidate must first apply through the state civil service system to become a Public Health Medical Officer III (Epidemiology). As background, please note that applicants to the state civil service system are considered for inclusion on job category-specific civil service lists. Only highly qualified candidates in the first 3 ranks of the category-specific list may be invited to interview formally for this position. The exam package and state application must be filled out and submitted:
